SHIPPERS IN OKLAHOMA ASK JUSTICE

ARGUE TO THE COMMISSION AGAINST THE FREIGHT RATES

CLAIM SEVERAL RAILROADS ARE MAKING DISCRIMINATIONS IN FAVOR OF SHIPPERS IN TEXAS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—The corporation commission of Oklahoma, J. E. Love, A. P. Watson and George A. Henshaw, appeared before the interstate commerce commission today to complain against the Atchison & Southern and 17 other railroads operating in the Southwestern commission territory. Mr. Love, arguing the case for the commission, brought out that flour and commodity rates from many points in the western states in Oklahoma are all statutes in Texas are unreasonable and unremunerable.

He claimed that there are two different kinds of rates used. The rates from Texas jobbing points, he said, are made up on a specific basis to all destinations in Oklahoma, while the rates from the principal jobbing points in Oklahoma are made to Texas destinations on a group basis, the rate to the most distant point in the group being applied to all points therein, and a much higher scale of rates used for the traffic moving southward. TWO FEUDISTS IN KENTUCKY SHOT DEAD BY CONSTABLE

TWO MEN SHOW FIGHT WHEN OFFICER ATTEMPTS TO SERVE WARRANT AND CONSTABLE PLUGS BOTH.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Feb. 10—Louis Hall and his son Morgan, two noted feudists were shot and killed by Constable George Johnson, who went to serve a warrant on the son.

The feudists both reached for their guns when the constable appeared, but the officer was too quick for them and put bullets into both men.

PLAYING A WITNESS.

Methods of Two Famous Cross Examiners of the Irish Bar.

Two famous cross examiners at the Irish bar, says Francis L. Wellman in "The Art of Cross Examination," were Sergeant Sullivan, afterward master of the rolls in Ireland, and Sergeant Armstrong. Barry O'Brien in his "Life of Lord Russell" describes their methods with perjured witnesses.

"Sullivan," he says, "approached the witness quite in a friendly way, seemed to be an impartial inquirer seeking information, looked surprised at what the witness said, appeared even grateful for the additional light thrown on the case.

"'Ah, indeed! Well, as you have said so much perhaps you can help us a little further. Well, really, my lord, this is a very intelligent man.'

"So playing the witness with caution and skill, drawing him stealthily on, keeping him completely in the dark about the real point of attack, the 'little sergeant' waited until the man was in the meshes and then flew at him and shook him as a terrier would a rat.

"The big sergeant (Armstrong) had more humor and more power, but less dexterity and resource. His great weapon was ridicule. He laughed at the witness and made everybody else laugh. The witness got confused and lost his temper, and then Armstrong pounded him like a champion in the ring."

Quicksand.

Quicksand differs from beach and other sand in that the individual grains have become worn by water or wind until the normal facets and angles have been abraded and each grain has become more or less spherical. The coefficient of friction is thus reduced to the minimum and the bed does not pack when dry and when wet behaves like a fluid. The depth of quicksand is conditioned by the depth of the hardpan or other compact material upon which the sand rests. In building operations on the lower end of Manhattan island quicksands are encountered more than 100 feet in depth. Near Pueblo, Colo., in 1875, a train was drawn by a derailed locomotive into a quicksand and was swallowed up beyond discovery, although probed for to a depth of fifty feet. In certain smaller littoral quicksands, bodies which have been engulfed are in time brought to the surface at the edge of the shivering sands. This is due to the structure of the containing bowl of rock which permits a sluggish circulatory movement of the plastic mass.

The Sea Otter's Cabbage.

Off the Alaskan coast and among the Aleutian islands grows a great brown seaweed called the sea otter's cabbage. On the surface of the water floats a barrel shaped air vessel six or seven feet long, from which grows a mass of foliage consisting of forty or fifty great fronds, each one of which may be from thirty to fifty feet in length. Upon the air vessel the sea otter lurks while it pursues its vocation of fishing for a living. The whole floating mass is anchored by a slender cordlike stalk that is attached to the rocks far below. This anchor line often exceeds 300 feet in length and is so strong and slender that sections of it are cured and used by the Aleutian Islanders as fishing lines.

LAST OF THE YAQUIS.

Passing of a Once Famous Tribe of Mexican Indians.

All the world has heard of the famous Yaqui Indians of the state of Sonora, Mexico. They are for the most part dwellers in the hills, crudely armed with primitive weapons, but terrific fighters who have more than once decisively beaten the soldiers of Mexico.

Peaceable when undisturbed, fully alive to the richness of their mines and the value of their fertile valleys, they sought only to defend that which was theirs from the grasping hands of those who desired their mines and their lands. Like most aborigines, however, they were doomed from the first. What was at the time of Cortez a tribe of 5,000 strong, able to defy the warriors of Montezuma, has dwindled until there are now not more than 500 souls in the valley of the Yaqui river and in the mountain gorges which wall in the source of this stream.

The bulk of the Yaquis have been wiped out in sanguinary wars or taken prisoners and shot, and those for whom no excuse for death could be found have been deported to the fever stricken vales of Yucatan. The Yaquis as a race are no more, but their presence has been made conspicuous only during the past few years.—Wide World Magazine.

TESTING A PICTURE.

Tissot, the Famous French Painter and His Critic.

An interesting story is told of Jacques Tissot, the great French painter. While in England he painted a beautiful religious picture and, meeting a countrywoman, asked her opinion of his work. "It's a chef d'oeuvre," she replied, giving a remarkably just and detailed appreciation of the various merits of the really splendid painting.

"Are you satisfied?" asked a friend. Tissot answered in the negative. He entirely repainted his picture, working night and day.

When finished he sent again for his fair critic, who pronounced it admirable and remained silently admiring it with smiling criticism.

"Are you satisfied?" asked the friend again when the lady had departed. "No," replied the artist, and he set to work for the third time.

When the Parisienne saw the new painting she gazed at it for some moments with evident emotion and then without a word sank softly to her knees and began to pray.

"Are you satisfied now?" whispered the friend, and Tissot said "Yes."—London Saturday Review.

Ostrich Plumes.

In each wing of an ostrich twenty-six long white plumes grow to maturity in eight months. In the male these are pure white, while those of the female shade to ecru or gray. The short feathers are plucked for tips, and each wing furnishes seventy-five of these. The tall feathers are of a deep old ivory color, and sixty-five of these have a commercial value.

QUESTION OF PRICE OF BEEF

MAY BE CHANGED BY CASE NOW BEFORE COMMISSION

DECISION WILL BE OF VITAL INTEREST TO SHIPPERS, CONSUMERS, AND RAILROADS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—One of the most interesting cases that has come before the interstate commerce commission in the past year, was argued today by representatives of various chambers of commerce located in the middle west and southwest, and of over 700 railroads operating in various parts of the United States. The disposition of the case, which involves the rates on stock cattle and sheep, will affect the price of beef and mutton in every city in the United States.

The case has been before the commission since August 11, 1911, coming up when the various railroad interests petitioned the commission to advance the rates on stock cattle and sheep to the rates of beef cattle, amounting to from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. Complaints against the petition were filed with the commission by cattle raisers' associations, and a number of chambers of commerce and traffic bureaus located in various sections of the west and middle west. As a result the commission suspended the rates from time to time pending inquiry and hearings, and finally fixed June 13, 1912, as the outside limit for an opinion in the matter.

The railroads most interested are western, southern and middle western points, to the packing house centers. [illegible]

[illegible]

... and a rearrangement along the same lines by both carriers and shippers made at a prior hearing, bringing out few additional details of the long fight between the cattle raisers and the carriers.

An opinion in the case is expected from the commission within the next six weeks.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE, Feb. 7.—The sale at Ridgewood last Friday was a great success financially, and it is understood another sale will be held in the near future.

A wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Culbreth Hickman last Sunday, when their daughter, Miss Zola Hickman, was united in marriage to Mr. Jones, who is employed by the Tomoka Land company.

Mrs. Sheldon of Cleveland, Ohio, is spending the winter with Mrs. J. C. Nokes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Master tendered an informal dance to the young people Monday evening.

Port Orange is very much in need of an up-to-date hotel. One would undoubtedly pay well.

Mrs. McClure of Atlanta is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hikstone.

Miss Mabel Summerlin of Fort Pierce is the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wells.

Rev. D. H. Rehler, pastor of the First M. E. church, will use for his text at the service at that church tomorrow morning, "The Problem of the Young Man." Two solos, one of them especially appropriate for the occasion, will be sung by Miss Helen Shelly, the talented vocalist, who is spending the season at Daytona Beach.

The Useful Verb "To Get."

There is no word, long or short, in the English language capable of performing so much labor in a clause, intelligible as the verb to get. And here is an old time specimen of its capabilities:

"I got on horseback within ten minutes after I got your letter. When I got to Canterbury I got a chaise for town, but I got wet through before I got to Canterbury, and I have got such a cold as I shall not be able to get rid of in a hurry. I got to the treasury about noon; but, first of all, I got shaved and dressed. I soon got into the secret of getting a memorial before the board, but I could not get an answer then. However, I got intelligence from the messenger that I should most likely get one the next morning. As soon as I got back to my inn I got my supper. When I got up in the morning I got my breakfast and then got myself dressed that I might get out in time to get an answer to my memorial. As soon as I got it I got into the first chaise and got to Canterbury by 3 o'clock, and about tea time I got home."—Ave Maria.

Wellington's Subtle Retort.

Wednesday, 19th October, 1826—Lord Fitzgerald made us laugh at dinner today with a story about John Wilson Croker, whose pertinacity of opinion is well known. He was laying down the law after dinner to the Duke of Wellington and, according to custom, asserting the superiority of his own information on all subjects, having even flatly contradicted the duke, who had mentioned some incident that had taken place at the battle of Waterloo. At last the conversation turned upon the use of percussion caps for muskets of the army when Croker again maintained a directly opposite opinion to that which was urged by the duke, who at last good humoredly said to him, "My dear Croker, I can yield to your superior information on most points, and you may know a great deal more of what passed at Waterloo than myself, but as a sportsman I will maintain my point about percussion caps."—Thomas Raikes' Journal.

The Larch In Labrador.

The soil and atmosphere are so cold and dry in faraway Labrador that scarcely any vegetation thrives at all. The larch is a species of pine tree which is found in all northern countries, but its growth is so stunted in Labrador that a specimen found on the most southern part of that dreary land was but nine inches in height and the trunk was but three-eighths of an inch in diameter. A careful examination of the miniature tree revealed its age to be at least thirty-two years, for there were that number of ring growths shown in its small trunk. The very cold currents pouring down from the north and the fact that Labrador has less sunshine than Alaska, together with several inland climatic conditions, make the summer seasons shorter and colder than are those of Alaska.—Exchange.

Nerves of Genius.

Many of the men whose names are famous today in science, art, literature and poetry suffered from emotional disturbances, resulting in nerve storms or outbursts of mental violence, which can only be described as supermaniacal. The poet Cowper had strong suicidal tendencies, and he wrote "John Gilpin" [illegible]

[illegible]

Value of Deep Breathing.

[illegible] and full breathing are thereby enabled to master their emotions—they can overcome pain and secure control of the mind and of the circulation of the blood. The control of the breathing prevents one from becoming hurried and flurried, and one acts leisurely, although not lazily. Breathing can be adapted to various needs—for instance, in producing warmth or the opposite effect—or one can breathe in order to become more sensitive. In fact, the all round value of deep and full breathing cannot be overestimated. Of all physical practices this is the first and foremost and one that can be regulated without being in the least conspicuous. If you have learned how to breathe deeply and fully people may not suspect it—they only notice that you are calm, poised and good tempered.

OUR WANTS.

A great number of our wants are special wants of the imagination. We want them simply because we think that we want them. They give us no enjoyment when we obtain them. The want of them is only known by a feeling that we are without them.

Great Premium Offer

THE circulation of The Gazette-News is already large but the publisher is determined to add several hundred more names to the list and in order to do so makes several offers that you cannot afford to miss.

We want to give every housewife in this country a new pair of SHEARS—not that we think you are out of shears at your home but we know that no matter how many pair of shears you have, you will appreciate a new pair, especially the Eureka Trimmer Shears, which is a superior shear in every way to the ordinary pair of shears generally used in the everyday household.

This is not a philanthropic movement on our part nor a plan to disburse charity, nor is it a scheme to force people to buying something they do not need. We have learned the value of the housewife's good will, and this will be considered by us in offering these

Eureka Bent Trimmer Shears

We have bought another gross for distribution and those who do not respond to our offer immediately may not be able to get a pair. If you want to secure a pair

ORDER THEM RIGHT NOW

then you will be sure of receiving your shears. This is a very liberal offer and one that can be taken advantage of by everyone in this country, and we want readers to our paper. We believe this offer will more than satisfy the most exacting subscriber.

QUESTION OF PRICE OF BEEF

MAY BE CHANGED BY CASE NOW BEFORE COMMISSION

DECISION WILL BE OF VITAL INTEREST TO SHIPPERS, CONSUMERS, AND RAILROADS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—One of the most interesting cases that has come before the interstate commerce commission in the past year, was argued today by representatives of various chambers of commerce locate in the middle west and southwest, and of over 700 railroads operating in various parts of the United States. The disposition of the case, which involves the rates on stock cattle and sheep, will affect the price of beef and mutton in every city in the United States.

The case has been before the commission since August 11, 1911, coming up when the various railroad interests petitioned the commission to advance the rates on stock cattle and sheep to the rates of beef cattle, amounting to from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. Complaints against the petition were filed with the commission by cattle rasers' assocatons, and a number of chambers of commerce and traffic bureaus located in various sections of the west and middle west. As a result the commission suspended the rates from time to time pending inquiry and hearings, and finally fixed June 13, 1913, as the outside limit for an opinion in the matter.

The railroads most interested are western, southern and middle western points, to the packing house centers. The complainants interested are chambers of commerce and live stock associations located in a number of cities. Briefs in the case have been filed by these associations as well as the railroads.

George T. Bell, of the Sioux City Live Stock association in presenting the cattle raisers' sde of the controversy today, stated that the railroads have failed utterly to justify the proposed advance in rates on stock cattle and sheep. He said: "They have not even attempted to assume the burden of proof cast upon them by the statute and have produced no evidence to prove the reasonableness of the proposed advance rates for the service performed or to show the reasonableness of a basis or relution of rates that makes raw material given a confessedly second rate service."

He charged that the sweeping advance of 33 1-3 per cent. in these rates was the result of an agreement among the carriers, and that the effect of the agreement was discriminatory in a large measure in the movement of interstate traffic.

Bennett Lee, counsel for the Illinois railroad, who addressed the commission in behalf of a number of the carriers, held that the lower rate of 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. on stock cattle and sheep was in effect a discount or a privilege granted by the railroads to encourage the stock raising industry. He said that the proposed withdrawal of this privilege or the proposed withholding of a discount, resulting in higher charges is not a proposed increase in rates as contemplated under the commerce act.

The commission at the hearing today heard a few additional witnesses and a rearrangement along the same lines by both carriers and shippers made at a prior hearing, bringing out few additional details of the long fight between the cattle raisers and the carriers.

An opinion in the case is expected from the commisson within the next six weeks.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE, Feb. 9.—The sale at Ridgewood hall last Friday was a great success financially, and it is understood another sale will be held in the near future.

A wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun Hickman last Sunday, when their daughter, Miss Zola Hickman, was united in marriage to Mr. Jones, who is employed by the Tomoka Land company.

Mrs. Sheldon of Cleveland, Ohio, is spending the winter with Mrs. J. C. Nokes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Master tendered an informal dance to the young people Monday evening.

Port Orange is very much in need of an up-to-date hotel. One would undoubtedly pay well.

Mrs. McClure of Atlanta is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rikeman.

Miss Mabel Summerlin of Fort Pierce is the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wells.

Rev. D. H. Rutter, pastor of the First M. E. church, will use for his text at the service at that church tomorrow morning, "The Problem of the Young Man." Two solos, one of them especially appropriate for the occasion, will be sung by Miss Helen Shelly, the talented vocalist, who is spending the season at Daytona Beach.

The Useful Verb "To Get."

There is no word, long or short, in the English language capable of performing so much labor in a clear, intelligible sense as the verb to get. And here is an old time specimen of its capabilities:

"I got on horseback within ten minutes after I got your letter. When I got to Canterbury I got a chaise for town, but I got wet through before I got to Canterbury, and I have got such a cold as I shall not be able to get rid of in a hurry. I got to the treasury about noon; but, first of all, I got shaved and dressed. I soon got into the secret of getting a memorial before the board, but I could not get an answer then. However, I got intelligence from the messenger that I should most likely get one the next morning. As soon as I got back to my inn I got my supper. When I got up in the morning I got my breakfast and then got myself dressed that I might get out in time to get an answer to my memorial. As soon as I got it I got into the first chaise and got to Canterbury by 3 o'clock, and about tea time I got home."—Ave Maria.

Wellington's Subtle Retort.

Wednesday, 19th October, 1836—Lord Fitzgerald made us laugh at dinner today with a story about John Wilson Croker, whose pertinacity of opinion is well known. He was laying down the law after dinner to the Duke of Wellington and, according to custom, asserting the superiority of his own information on all subjects, having even flatly contradicted the duke, who had mentioned some incident that had taken place at the battle of Waterloo. At last the conversation turned upon the use of percussion caps for muskets of the army when Croker again maintained a directly opposite opinion to that which was urged by the duke, who at last good humoredly said to him, "My dear Croker, I can yield to your superior information on most points, and you may know a great deal more of what passed at Waterloo than myself, but as a sportsman I will maintain my point about percussion caps."—Thomas Raikes' Journal.

The Larch in Labrador.

The soil and atmosphere are so cold and dry in faraway Labrador that scarcely any vegetation thrives at all. The larch is a species of pine tree which is found in all northern countries, but its growth is so stunted in Labrador that a specimen found on the most southern part of that dreary land was but nine inches in height and the trunk was but three-eighths of an inch in diameter. A careful examination of the miniature tree revealed its age to be at least thirty-two years, for there were that number of ring growths shown in its small trunk. The very cold currents pouring down from the north and the fact that Labrador has less sunshine than Alaska, together with several inland climatic conditions, make the summer seasons shorter and colder than are those of Alaska.—Exchange.

Nerves of Genius.

Many of the men whose names we revere today in science, art, literature and poetry suffered from emotional disturbances, resulting in nerve storms or outbursts of mental violence, which can only be described as superacute mania. The poet Cowper had strong suicidal tendencies, yet he wrote "John Gilpin" when suffering from intense melancholia. Shelley had an insane ancestry, and at Eton he was called "Mad Shelley." Charles Lamb had to be placed in an asylum, and his sister Mary stabbed her mother to the heart while insane. Wordsworth and his sister Dorothy are almost a parallel to Charles and Mary Lamb. At the age of thirty Coleridge was broken down, and he died a wreck at sixty-two. Southey came of an insane stock. The mother of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the dramatist, died demented at forty-two. Pope was deformed and rickety, and Keats was neuropathic to his finger tips. Byron's mother was unbalanced, and so was his maternal grandfather.—London Globe.

Value of Deep Breathing.

Writing on the cultivation of physical fitness in the Herald of the Golden Age, Eustace Miles says that those who have mastered the art of deep and full breathing are thereby enabled to master their emotions—they can overcome pain and secure control of the mind and of the circulation of the blood. The control of the breathing prevents one from becoming hurried and flurried, and one acts leisurely, although not lazily. Breathing can be adapted to various needs—for instance, in producing warmth or the opposite effect—or one can breathe in order to become more sensitive. In fact, the all round value of deep and full breathing cannot be overestimated. Of all physical practices this is the first and foremost and one that can be regulated without being in the least conspicuous. If you have learned how to breathe deeply and fully people may not suspect it—they only notice that you are calm, poised and good tempered.

Snake's Method of Attack.

No snake is able to jump or spring from a coil in order to strike, as often represented in pictures. It can only strike when it resembles the letter S and is lying flat on the ground. It can then only reach the distance supplied by stretching the body out straight. The two curves in the figure S supply this distance, which is about half the length of the body. No snake jumps through the air to its victim or springs clear from the ground, rising upon its tail. Such stories and pictures are all false. Neither do they coil like a rope and strike from that position. They may coil partially, but the part of the body that does the striking is ever and only that part which makes the figure S and lies flat on the ground; hence no serpent can strike when stretched out its full length.

Lamb and His Snuffbox.

"One summer's evening," writes Hone, "I was walking on Hampstead heath with Charles Lamb, and we had talked ourselves into a philosophic contempt of our slavery to the habit of snuff taking, and with the firm resolution of never again taking a single pinch we threw our stuffboxes away from the hill on which we stood far among the furze and brambles below and went home in triumph. I began to be very miserable; was wretched all night. In the morning I was walking on the same hill. I saw Charles Lamb below, searching among the bushes. He looked up, laughing, and said 'What! You are come to look for your snuffbox too?' 'Oh, no,' said I, taking a pinch out of a paper in my waistcoat pocket; 'I went for a halfpenny worth to the first shop that was open!'"

A Death Feigning Plant.

That certain insects, birds, mammals and reptiles habitually pretend to be dead when danger threatens them is a well known fact, but it is generally believed that this stratagem is resorted to only by animals. In South America, however, there is a plant—a species of mimosa—which resorts to death feigning, evidently for the purpose of preventing the grass eating animals from eating it. In its natural state this plant has a vivid green hue, but directly it is touched by a human finger or by any living animal it collapses into a tangle of apparently dead and withered stems.

Smart Sayings.

Lord Palmerston's reply to the illiterate member who asked him, "Are there two hens in 'Gilton?" is a specimen of his rather bolsterous chaff. "No; only one. That's why heggs are so scarce there."

Mr. Disraeli's comment upon a portrait of himself, "Is it not hideous—and so like?" exhibited a discernment not common with unflattered sitters.—"Twenty Years in Parliament."

On the Quiet.

Little Marjory—Mamma, what is a spinster? Mother — A spinster, my dear, is a woman to be envied. But don't tell your father I said so.—Liverpool Mercury.

Rainbow Friends.

"Lincoln," said a veteran diplomat, "used to compare fair weather friends to the rainbow."

"They look fine, and they bend very polite," he would say, "but they're never around when the sun isn't shining."

Hannibal's Downfall.

The fate of Hannibal turned upon the result of a promenade. It was after he had crossed the Alps and entered Italy, with winter quarters established at Capua. His residence was one of the best houses in the city, and while walking in the garden he heard a female voice singing not far away. Struck by the tones of the voice, he is sued an order that the singer should be brought before him. He was so greatly impressed by her charms that he at once attached her to his household, disposing of the husband by beheading him. Retribution followed closely upon the cowardly perpetration of the outrage. The balance of the winter was devoted to pleasure, discipline and drills were practically abandoned, and with the advent of spring the Carthaginian army was so demoralized by the dissipation of the city that its prestige was lost, and with it came the downfall of Hannibal.

The Sara-Kabbah Fashion.

The Sara-Kabbah people of central Africa adopt the hideous fashion of wearing large wooden disks in the lips, the one in the upper lip about three inches in diameter and that in the lower six inches. "These ornaments," says Mr. Karl W. Kumm in "From Hausaland to Egypt," "restrain the wearers from prolonged conversation. One of the chiefs, when I asked him the reason why they disfigured their women, informed me that their forefathers had developed this habit in order that the women might exercise no attractions for the Moslem slave raiders."

Warning a Serpent.

Down in Bermuda Mark Twain made a speech about snakes to a group of little girls. The speech was great. The only trouble was that the little girls could not appreciate it. It flew over their heads. This was the humorist's conclusion:

"Never warm a serpent in your bosom. It is far easier to warm it by placing it under the pillow of an intimate friend."—Harper's Weekly.

Recklessness.

Singleton—Wigwag seems frightfully despondent. He says he doesn't care what happens to him. Henpeckke—The first thing you know that fellow will be going off and getting married.—Philadelphia Record.

Bungalow.

The word bungalow is an Anglo-Indian version of the Hindu bangla, which primarily means Bengali, or of Bengal, and is also applied to a thatched hut.

Fitting Trait.

"Young Biffins' infatuation for pretty Miss Gladys is merely puppy love."

"I suppose that accounts for his dog-like devotion."—Baltimore American.

Idleness is the sepulcher of a living man.—Holland.

Having once lost a case in New York, Counselor Nolan sadly remarked, "My poor client is little likely to get justice done here until the judgment day."

"Well, counselor," said the court, "if I have an opportunity I'll plead for the poor woman myself on that day."

"Your honor," replied Nolan, "will have troubles of your own upon that day."

Training an Elephant.

In training the elephant to perform advantage is taken of the fact that the feet of the animal are peculiarly sensitive and he dreads any injury to them. Many of the tricks are based upon this principle. Thus he is made to place one foot upon a low pedestal; then the other foot is tapped gently, and he raises this and places it beside the other—to get it out of harm's way. The hind feet are treated similarly in turn, the front feet being hit every time they are placed on the ground. In this way all four feet are finally placed upon the tub. The trick of inducing an elephant to partake of a meal is very simple. Animals will naturally eat anything placed before them, and it is only necessary to open a bottle of "pop" once or twice and present it by hand when the animal may be trusted to find out for himself how to get at its contents. In all such cases the essence of the training consists in infinite patience, kindness and constant repetition, showing the animal over and over again how a thing is done in precisely the same way and then forcing him to do it himself.—Scientific American.

The Old Man's Plea.

He got eight years in Sing Sing, but nevertheless the plea for mercy of Joseph Amos Washington Brown was one of the finest prose poems ever uttered in the general sessions of New York.

The old man addressed the court as follows:

"Deed, yo' honah, I can't say much. Mah record am sure against me. I hab served mo' time than sixteen years in prison for de same offense. All I have to remark (an' I hope yo' honah will not be too stern) is dat I just simply can't keep away from a henroost nohow when I hear dem pullets callin'."

Rudyard Kipling expressed the very same idea when he wrote those two familiar lines:

For the wind is in the palm trees, an' the temple bells they say:
"Come you back, you British soldier; come you back to Mandalay!"

The chicken habit once formed is as tenacious and irresistible as the Burma girl habit.—Boston Globe.

Can't Beat the Head Waiter.

"You can't get ahead of a head waiter," said a man who spends a great deal of time at one of the New York hotels. "Of course the tips at a hotel like this mount up, and, as there are several restaurants, if you give $25 or $30 to the head waiter of each one of them it is too much. I sweetened one head waiter, but neglected to give the autocrat of another restaurant anything. Soon I found that it was very difficult for me to get a table in that restaurant. The head waiter would always be looking another way or a table that I fancied had been engaged. I got even by giving my waiters extra big tips, and it soon got so that when I entered the restaurant half a dozen upraised fingers would beckon me. But soon the head waiter was on to my game, and it got so that almost every table offered me was claimed by the head waiter on the ground that it was reserved."—New York Sun.

Pullman's Little Joke.

S. S. Beman, the architect, had the most to do with the building of the town of Pullman, although acting on certain suggestions from the founder of the colony. When plans had been completed and the perfunctory work of execution was under way the architect said to the car company chief:

"Now that we are well started, Mr. Pullman, I want to ask you if you have given any thought to naming the town."

"A great deal," said Mr. Pullman. "I think it is only fair that you should have recognition, and I have decided upon a composite name that will immortalize you and myself at the same time. We will do this by taking the first syllable of my name and the last syllable of yours."—Chicago Post.

Browning and a Cabman.

The gondoliers of Venice are supposed to know their Tasso and Ariosto. The following little incident leads to the supposition that Browning's "Ride to Ghent" may possibly be found in the poetic repertory of the London cabman: A neighbor one day saw Mr. Browning alight from a hansom. The cabby looked at the fare in his open palm with an air of dissatisfaction and, wheeling round, delivered himself of this parting shot: "You may be a good poet, but you're a bad paymaster."—Mrs. Andrew Crosse in "Red Letter Days of My Life."

His Calling.

"What are you doing now, Wigglethorpe?"

"Settlement work."

"Settlement work? You don't look the part."

"That's what I'm doing, just the same; I'm collecting bills for old Spotcash."—Exchange.

An Easy Task.

Lover (mournfully)—Have you learned to love another? Flirt (who had just broken off her engagement with him)—Oh, no, George. I didn't have to learn. The man is very, very wealthy, and the love came spontaneously.

"Music Hath Charms."

"What on earth d'you keep clapping for? That last singer was awful!"

"I know, but I liked the style of her clothes, and I want to have another look at them."—London Opinion.

Diplomats get more profit by listening than by talking even when they talk well.—Hanotaux.

Shady Character.

"There is a man whom my husband employs who openly shows a tendency toward low places, and who is noted for his dark deeds." "Why, then, does your husband employ him?" "To put coal in our cellar."

Evidence Enough.

A—"How do you know that Maier has come in for a fortune?" B—"Why, formerly, people always said he was crazy; now they say he is original."—Lustige Blatter.

OCEAN SHIP TRAPS

Deadly Snares Laid For Its Prey by the Glutton Sea.

KENTISH KNOCK IS PITILESS.

This Treacherous Spot Is the Real Davy Jones' Locker—No Hope For Vessel or Man When Neptune Asks Toll at This Submarine Graveyard.

"Davy Jones' locker," that perilous spot mention of which so often comes from the lips of sailors, is not shown on any ocean chart principally because it is not really a settled place, but if any ocean death trap deserved the title it is the Thames estuary.

The British naval authorities have a chart upon which is marked the position of wrecks, shown by black dots. On this chart the Thames mouth tract is a solid black spot. So numerous have been the wrecks the dots run together. The point where the black dots actually pile the one on the top of another is the Kentish Knock, and this is the place among all of the ocean danger spots that deserves the title of Davy Jones' locker.

At the Kentish Knock it is not lost shattering rocks nor piercing points of coral that wreck the ocean travelers. It is sand—treacherous, clinging sand—that grasps the doomed ship with a grip of steel and holds it firmly while the angry sea beats it to fragments. Many a vessel posted at Lloyd's as missing would be duly accounted for if the Knock sand would give up its prey. There is no hope for ship or men when Neptune asks toll at the Kentish Knock, for the nearest land is twenty miles away and the nearest lifeboat at Margate, thirty miles distant.

The sands of the ocean are far more dangerous than rocks. The sand banks extend over more space and therefore offer more points of contact than the rocks, which usually rise in slender pinnacles. The waters flow over the sands in smooth waves, and there are no warning breakers.

Next to the Thames mouth tract in point of danger is the Hooghly, the salt water river on which Calcutta stands. The most trying part of a large vessel's voyage from New York to Calcutta is the last few miles of this calm river. In this strange stream, in windless weather and for calm water, vessels have been lost—dashed to pieces on the dreaded ever shifting sand banks by the force of the tides.

The sands grasp the keel of the marked vessel and she stops. But the tide moves on with relentless force, and the helpless ship is carried over on her beam ends. She careens over and founders with all on board. One of the worst shoals in the Hooghly bears the name of James and Mary. This was the name of a great Indian merchant ship wrecked on the sunken sand banks.

Another danger point dreaded by the master mariner has neither sand nor rocks, but a great submarine waterfall. In the English channel there is a point just beyond the Shambles bank where there is a sudden drop in the sea bottom. The channel tides sweep over the banks and down this sudden drop, creating rapids equal in fury to those of Niagara. The American ship Georgian foundered in Portland race, the name by which this danger point is known, and all hands went down with her.

Ships bound to New York from Europe pass near a deadly hidden shoal which runs out from Sable island, lying off Cape Sable, in Nova Scotia. The shoal runs out for miles in five directions, like the fingers of a great hand reaching out for what it can destroy.

When the gales blow heavy seas boom upon the shoals with sufficient force to shatter the stanchest vessel afloat, and when the wind ceases the beaches are strewn with the bodies of those who have perished. The distance from the shore is too great and the surf too heavy for the life savers to reach a struggling vessel, and few lives are saved at this point. Ten vessels have been wrecked in this trap in a single week.

The rocky danger points in the ocean have nearly all been classified, and lighthouses have been erected on the most dangerous—except one. There is no lighthouse on the Virgin rock, and there never will be.

Out in the mid-Atlantic this giant pinnacle rears its head up from the ocean floor and vainly seeks to reach the surface of the sea. It is short by about eighteen feet. There it stands, with its sharp point hidden by the ocean waves, waiting to pierce the bottom of some unsuspecting vessel and send it down to join the pile of ships' ribs and dead men's bones that litter the floor around its base.

The waves seem to be in league with the rock, for if a vessel of light draft tries to pass over its head the waves drop it down into a trough at the bottom of which the point of the rock is waiting to rip out its keel.—Harper's Weekly.

It Was Easy.

"You didn't catch a single fish during your trip?"

"No, but"—

"Yes, you got lots of bites. And some big ones got away. But Jones went up there after you came home"—

"The big bluff!"

"Of course. But he caught the banner fish of the season."

"After that same fish had fattened himself on twenty-eight pounds of my bait! Why not?"—Cleveland Leader.

One can stop when he ascends, but not when he descends.—Napoleon.

Japanese Shun Factory Life.

Of the Japanese factory laborer the average "work life" is short, very few being able to last longer than five years. Hence the rural population hesitates to migrate to the city when country employment is abundant.

One Risk Sufficient.

Marks—If you had to live your life over again would you marry the same woman? Parks—You just bet I would. I know what she is, and women are too uncertain for me to experiment with another one.

MAN WITH PEN TAKES A SHOT AT MAN WITH GUN

ROASTS THE FELLOW WHO WANTONLY SLAUGHTERS THE BIRDS THROUGH THE MERE DESIRE TO KILL.

Editor Daily News:

The writer, while enjoying an auto trip over your beautiful beach, observed a rotund, red-faced specimen of the human family, armed with a repeating shot gun, his body encircled with a double row of shells. Thus equipped he presented the appearance of a walking arsenal out for the purpose of killing any bird that unfortunately came within his range.

Approaching a flock of harmless little sand pipers or gulls which almost knew no fear he poured volleys of shot into their midst, killing and maiming dozens of their number. Talk about taking candy from the baby—such an act would appear as a pleasant occupation when compared with the murderous work of this strain of the "genius porker," who enter Florida every tourist season.

There are many birds to be seen on the beach, hopping about on one leg or fluttering with an injured wing, that in this condition have managed to escape being killed outright. Heavens! Gulls and shore birds of all kinds are regarded as mere things to gratify the murderous instinct of this man and his kind.

It is just this sort of destructive work that is not only destroying the beach but the woods of a picturesque feature, as well as robbing the state of one of its many distinctive charms.

Profit in Seaweed.

The same species of seaweed used in Japan for the manufacture of kanten exists in inexhaustible abundance on our Pacific coast and at numerous places along the Atlantic coast, while related species, of equal value, are abundant almost everywhere in temperate waters. In this country the product commands high prices, so that the manufacture of seaweed insinglass ought to prove a highly remunerative industry.

The Little Word "Yes."

"Yes" is a simple word spelled with three letters.

It has caused more happiness and more unhappiness than any other word in the language.

It has lost more money for easy lenders than all the holes in all the pockets in the world.

Gifted Idiots.

Idiots have been known whose memory for names and words was so retentive that they could repeat verbatim and indicate where the preacher blew his nose and coughed in delivering it. Dr. Moffat, the distinguished African missionary and father-in-law of Dr. Livingstone, once preached a long sermon to a crowd of negroes. Shortly after he had finished he saw a number of negroes gather about a simple minded young savage. He went to them and discovered that the savage was preaching his sermon over again. Not only was he reproducing the precise words, but imitating the manner and gestures of the white preacher.

THE WEATHER FOR FLORIDA

Rain tonight and much colder in the north and central portions. Sunday unsettled with rain in the northwest portion and colder in the peninsula. Brisk, shifting winds.

TWO GIRLS ARE DYING WOUNDED BY BURGLARS.

TEMPLE, Minn., Feb. 19—Misses Ella Young and Lelia Baker are dying at the home of J. W. Bolton, a rich farmer living near here, from wounds on the head inflicted by two burglars, who tried to rob them of their jewelry. Posse and bloodhounds are in pursuit.

Mrs. E. F. McCorkle returned yesterday afternoon from Sanford where she was called about two weeks ago by the serious illness of her son's wife, Mrs. J. M. McCorkle, whose condition remains the same with very little signs of improvement.

Messrs. J. E. Bowen and John Geisenger of Shiloh, N. J., arrived in the city last night and are stopping at the Williams hotel. Messrs. Bowen and Geisenger are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Main and other Shiloh people in the city.

Wm. M. Turner arrived last night from Swarthmore, Pa., and joined Mrs. Perry and his two children, who have been here for some time, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lane on Ivy Lane. Mr. Turner will be here for a week or more.

RICHNESS OF MATERIALS MAKES COSTLY DRESSES.

Costliness in dress, says Miss Gertrude Ritchie of "The Lion and the Mouse" company, is to a great degree due to the richness of the materials which are employed for evening gowns and great occasions, so much gold and silver is used on embroidery or inter-woven in the designs of rich brocades. It takes some time to adapt one's self to such radical changes in dress as have characterized the last few years. People no longer look freakish, but wear the large hats, the scanty skirts and the long mantels in such a way as to suit their own personality, and they really look well dressed.

Perhaps it is because the dressmakers can use so little material that they are favoring such costly ones. Corduroy has been brought out in a variety of colors, which, however, lose their freshness soon. It is very general but very extravagant wear. Many fabrics seem to need a bordering of fur to complete them, and this cannot be anything but costly. Chiffon cloth over white satin is among the most modish styles for reception gowns, completed by lace ruffles at the neck and wrists. The lovely feathers on hats are a considerable item in expenditure.

A good way to get one of the best desk or library dictionaries is to take advantage of the offer made by the Gazette-News.

RECEPTION AT DAYTONA BEACH THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Probably the largest reception of the social season thus far was that rendered by Mesdames T. H. Fitzgerald and Graham Thompson, Thursday afternoon at the former's home on Halifax avenue, Daytona Beach, from 3 to 5 o'clock, in honor of Mrs. Harry A. Tucker and the Misses Marion Graham Thompson and Estelle Fitzgerald. About two hundred guests were present.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of bamboo and flowers, principally carnations and chrysanthemums and the dining table, which was presided over by Mrs. Thos. H. White, Mrs. Chas. Beach, Mrs. D. O'Bakore, Mrs. G. B. Seaman, and Miss Elizabeth Compton, assisted by Miss Margaret Shields and Miss Eleanor Brewster, presented a particularly bright and attractive appearance. Music by the Tucker orchestra added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

PARTY TO TOUR THE FLORIDA EAST COAST.

The Saginaw Daily News, of Saginaw, Mich., says of a party being formed for a trip to Florida:

"The start from Detroit will be on Monday, February 19. The first stop will be at St. Augustine, Fla., for two days, and while at this place a carriage drive will be taken about the city, visiting the old fort and city wall, and other points of historical interest. There will be two days spent in Daytona, and while at this point the party will be taken for a six mile carriage drive over the famous beach to Ormond-on-the-Halifax. The party will be home in Detroit Sunday, March 3, after spending two weeks in the south at the very height of the resort season."

This will be of interest to people here from that section of the country, as they will very likely have friends and acquaintances in the party.

After the Robbery.

Woman (to detective)—Why, it was this way: There came a ring at the door and there stood two men who said they were from the gas company, inspecting meters. They looked so dishonest I thought they were, so I let them in!

An Explanation.

"Your nephew is a college graduate, isn't he?" "Yes," confessed honest Farmer Hornbank; "but in justice to the college I'll own up that he had no sense beforehand."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Latest Cut.

The young man was disconsolate. Said he: "I asked her if I could see her home." "Why, certainly," she answered; "I will send you a picture of it."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Daily Thought.

We sleep, but the loom of life never stops; and the pattern which was weaving when the sun went down is weaving when it comes up tomorrow.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Tree-Dwarfing Process.

The Japanese process of dwarfing a pine tree lasts about ten years.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I herewith announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of tax collector of the city of Daytona and will appreciate the support of the voters at the approaching election.

J. W. BOOTH.

Tamest at the Start.

Statistics show that in nearly all cases the college girl, when she marries, stays married. Probably she starts out by giving her husband a vivid description of the hazing stunts she has participated in.—Cleveland Leader.

Educational Advancement.

The children at an Erith school were taken the other day to a traveling menagerie and circus in order to give them a practical lesson in natural history. Later on, we understand, they are to be taken to see a classical dancer in order to learn anatomy.—London Punch.

Nicely Put.

Brahms dined one day with one of his fanatic admirers, and the latter, knowing the master's predilection for fine wine, had a bottle of renowned quality brought to the table toward the end of the repast. "This," he exclaimed, "is the Brahms among my wines!" The guest sipped of it, saying: "Excellent, wonderful! Now bring on your Beethoven!"

Cure for Sleeplessness.

If one is restless and cannot sleep at night, take a common towel, double it four times, dip in cold water and put around the waist with a dry towel on the outside. For croup or sore throat, put the towels around the neck and they will give almost immediate relief.

In Modern Politics.

"I don't see anything that man has ever done that warrants his official importance," said the man who finds fault. "No," said Senator Sorghum. "Some of us get on not by what we have done, but by what we are willing to promise not to do."

The Duke's Dream.

The duke of Devonshire, who passed away some years ago, once said to a friend: "Yesterday I went to sleep, and I dreamed that I was addressing the house of lords, and when I awoke I found I was addressing the house of lords."—London Telegraph.

Not a Real Genius.

A Connecticut man has an alarm clock which arouses his bees and feeds them at the proper time. Time wasted! A real genius would have spent his time inventing an alarm clock that would lay eggs and cackle at the completion of the feat.

Early Type of Letters.

The type of letters in early manuscripts was the same as that of those used on the earlier metal plates and was tablets. All letters were capitals. Minuscule, or small lettering, as opposed to the majuscule, was invented in the seventh century.

Humps and Mumps.

A hump-backed woman was passing when a little five-year-old, with a pitying look, said: "What's the matter with the lady, mamma? Has she got the mumps in her back?"—Philadelphia Record.

Foster Innocent Amusement.

He is an enemy to the young who makes any innocent amusement appear to be sinful. Natural and wholesome impulses may easily be made to appear as temptations to wrong-doing.—Christian Register.

Brute, Indeed!

The Wife—I do believe I would fall dead if you were to come home early some evening. The Brute—You will have to offer a bigger bribe than that.—Indianapolis Press.

No Soft Winter.

"It's going to be a hard winter," said Mr. Growcher. "I hope so," replied the cheery citizen. "Let it freeze up and stay that way. I have no use for one of these mushy, thawing winters."

How's This for a Record?

A New Jersey woman has been a cook in a family for 42 years. She has never asked for a vacation, has never found fault with anything, has always cooked on a coal range and is happy and contented.—Exchange.

Provided for Burial Vault.

By the will of a French lady who died recently a farm was left to the town on condition her family vault was kept in repair; while the rest of her estate was to be divided among those attending her funeral.

What Fear Did.

A wealthy man in New York committed suicide when his doctor told him he had appendicitis. A post mortem revealed that he did not have it. His fear of evil was worse than the evil itself. (Prov. 1:32.)

Diagnosed.

"That's a smart thing I've done," said the doctor to his assistant. "What's that, doctor?" "I have put my signature in the column 'cause of death' in this death certificate."—Tit-Bits.
